Husky PRIDE and Kindness

During our counseling special this month, students explored what it means to show Husky PRIDE. We also engaged in activities to demonstrate the value of showing kindness to others. We read the book, Each Kindness, by Jacqueline Woodson. This book tells the story of a girl who is not treated kindly or accepted by her peers. Students learned through the story the “ripple” effect of being kind to others and how valuable it is to demonstrate kindness to all. Ask your child about the activity we did with a bowl of water and a rock! The students also had the opportunity to play the Kindness Game. Please reinforce at home the importance of showing Husky PRIDE at school and demonstrating kindness to others!

If you have any questions about the counseling program or any concerns, please feel free to reach to me at any time!
