Galloway's words of wisdom

Good morning, Eagles. This your Graduation Coach, Mrs. Galloway, with a few words of wisdom.

Here's a tale from the ancient Greek slave and storyteller Aesop. It's called "The Frogs and the Well."

There were two frogs living together in a marsh. One really hot summer the marsh dried up. The frogs took off to look for another place to live because frogs like to live in damp places. They came to a deep well. One frog looked down into it and said, "Hey! This looks nice and cool. Let's jump in!"

The other frog, who had a wiser head on his shoulders, replied, "Not so fast, buddy! Supposing the well dried up like the marshes. How would we ever get out again?"

What's the moral? It's simple: Look and then think before leaping. Today and every day, think twice before you dive into unknown waters. In the words of this old Scottish proverb:

If you don't see the bottom, don't wade.

With something to think about, this is Alicia Galloway. Make it a great day . . . or not. The choice is yours
